Julia didn't come from a family that had a lot of money, but she was definitely wealthy.

The type of wealth that she had could never be taken away. Her wealth was deep within her heart in the form of human values, such as truth, righteousness, peace, and love.

TRUTH
RIGHTEOUSNESS
PEACE
LOVE

One day, Julia was walking to class with her friends, Sarjen and Armaan, when they saw a new girl at school. They decided to introduce themselves.

The girl was pretty and had on fancy, designer clothes. They couldn't help but notice her earrings, necklace, and bracelet too because they glistened in the sun.

Julia cheerfully said, “Hi, my name is Julia. What’s your name?”

“My name is Riqueza,” replied the girl.

“How do you like our school?” asked Sarjen.

“I don’t like it at all,” Riqueza answered.

“Why not?” asked Armaan.

Riqueza bluntly responded, “This school is junky. It has small, old buildings, and the clothes that people wear here are so cheap looking. My old school was rich. It had new, big buildings and well-dressed people. The people were wealthy, so they could afford nice things.”

Julia realized that Riqueza didn't understand the true meaning of wealth.

Julia said, "Riqueza, although this school is not brand new, and the people don't dress fancy, it is the best school in town. You see, wealth cannot be measured by money, clothes, and buildings. True wealth can only be measured by how something or someone makes you feel on the inside."

“At this school, we are taught human values. We are taught to love and care for each other. This kind of wealth never runs out and it’s easy to get – just reach inside your heart. This is why our school gets top marks when compared to other schools.”

LOVE

After hearing Julia, Riqueza slowly changed her view of wealth and soon realized the true value of her new school.
