Will the fox know
Where this bird is set to go?

I am flying to my nest
To feed my little ones and rest.

Here comes food
from mummy,
I bet it'll be yummy!

Who is that digging? – wonders the rabbit.
A hole in the ground, who is hiding in it?

The mole has dug into the ground,
A little tunnel, narrow and round.

The mole has dug into the ground,
A little tunnel, narrow and round.

Good day!
This hole is quite deep.

This is where
I live and sleep.

– Whose lovely tail is this?
The squirrel wondered just then.

The tail belongs to a fox,
She lives in a den.

She lives in a den.

My den is very comfy,
Soft and pretty.
